

Samuel Maltry

ASSOCIATE

Direct: 480-744-3051

smaltry@rllaz.com

Samuel Maltry joins Rusing Lopez & Lizardi as a member of the firm's transactional, real estate and intellectual property departments.

Sam's practice is formed by a unique combination of financial, regulatory, and entrepreneurial experience. He holds a JD and MBA from Belmont University and a BSBA in Finance from the University of Arizona. During law school, he supported legal work at the Tennessee Department of Commerce and Insurance, where he managed contract drafting and legal research in emerging regulatory sectors including sports regulation and healthcare.

Previously, Sam interned at Tigress Financial Partners, a boutique investment bank, where he supported capital markets transactions and investor due diligence. He is also a co-founder of Maltry Motorcars, a classic car restoration business where he helped, alongside his brother, manage custom projects, negotiate contracts, and foster client relationships. Sam's legal approach is client-centered, business-informed, and results-oriented.

Personal

Born and raised in Tucson, Sam is an avid Wildcat sports fan and finds balance through outdoor pursuits like hunting, MMA and traveling, along with hands-on restoration of classic vehicles. Sam is conversational in Spanish and is currently studying Italian.

EDUCATION

Belmont University College of Law, 2024

- Juris Doctor (J.D.)

Belmont University Massey Graduate School of Business

- Master of Business Administration (M.B.A.)
- Massey ETS top 10% Award

University of Arizona, Eller College of Management, 2021

- Bachelor of Science in Business Administration (BSBA) emphasis in Finance
- Minor in Global Business

ADMISSIONS

State Bar of Arizona

PRACTICES

- Business Formation & Corporate Governance
- Commercial Property & Real Estate Development
- Contracts
- Finance
- Mergers, Acquisitions and Divestitures
- Technology Joint Ventures and Technology Development Agreements